What is AAGC?

 $n\n$

۱n

• It is a study jointly produced by three research institutions of India and Japan in consultation with other Asian and African think tanks.

• It envisages closer engagement between India and Africa for "sustainable and innovative development".

\n

• It will be anchored to four pillars:

 $n$

\n

 ${\tt 1.}\ \ Development\ and\ cooperation\ projects;$

\n

 ${\hbox{\bf 2. Quality infrastructure and institutional connectivity;}}\$

3. Enhancing capacities and skills and

4. People-to-people partnership.

۱n

 $n\n$

\n

 It will accord priority to development projects in health and pharmaceuticals, agriculture and agro-processing, disaster management, and skill enhancement.

\n

• It will have special focus on Africa, India and South Asia, Southeast Asia, East Asia and Oceania.

How it is different from China's OBOR?

 $n\n$

\n

- \bullet The approaches of India and China towards Africa are essentially different. $\ensuremath{^{\backslash n}}$
- China concentrates on infrastructure and cheque-book diplomacy, whereas India promotes a broader spectrum of cooperation projects and programmes focussed on the development of Africa's human resources.
- China goes solo, while India is desirous of working with other willing nations to assist Africa as per the latter's priorities.

What should be done to make AAGC effective?

 $n\n$

\n

- China is rapidly expanding its footprint in Africa.
- \bullet So India and Japan do not have the luxury of time.
- India and Japan should immediately initiate a few joint pilot projects involving the companies of India, Japan and a few African countries in identified areas such as health care, agriculture and blue economy.
- They should increase the scope of their development projects, create synergy among themselves and engage proactively with other willing partners.
