

Delay of Gujarat Assembly Elections

Why in news?

\n\n

\n

- Assembly elections for the Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh are usually announced simultaneously.

\n

- Currently, Gujarat elections have been suspiciously delayed by almost a month.

\n

\n\n

What is the reason?

\n\n

\n

- EC has reasoned that the delay was to facilitate the completion of flood relief programmes in Gujarat.

\n

- But this does not hold ground, as the 'Model Code of Conduct' for elections only prohibits fresh further spending and not work in progress.

\n

- Hence it questions the credibility of the Election Commission (EC) as an independent impartial body.

\n

\n\n

What are the implications of the delay?

\n\n

\n

- Contradiction - Preference for holding simultaneous elections has been voiced by both the government & EC.

\n

- The current delay is thus a not just against the norm but also contradicts the envisioned election outlook.

\n

- Misuse - Gujarat government had announced a variety of sops & concessions in this suspiciously attained grace time.
\n
- In 13 days, the state government has announced projects worth about Rs 11,000 crores and almost 16 populist concessions.
\n
- These include tax rebate for farmers, Salary increases for state government employees and diwali bonuses.
\n
- Other high-profile projects include metro rail project, Dahej Ferry Service and giving the nod for a flyover & bus station.
\n
- This episode has violated the spirit electioneering and the democracy.
\n
- If left unchecked, it could erode the credibility of our democratic institutions that have been pain-strikingly evolved over the years.
