What is the present scenario in Tiruppur SME?

\n\n

\n

- Tiruppur is a town in Coimbatore district of Tamilnadu.

\n

- It has textile hub which worth's Rs 42,000 crore.

\n

- It is sustained by 8,500 small, medium and large firms.

\n

- There were 1,500 small units in the periphery of tiruppur before the note ban.

\n

- A small stitching unit would employ around 15 women workers and made an average of Rs 20,000-25,000 every week.

What are the impacts of demonetization?

\n\n

\n

- Tiruppur industries belong to the micro- and small-scale category, and have not been able to bear the double blow of demonetisation and GST.

- \n
- After demonetization fewer than 500 small units are still doing regular business.
 - \n
 - Others are either shut or have been waiting for an order for several months now.
 - \n
 - On an average remaining workers at the small units is only around 5 and they struggle to make average of Rs 2,000 in two weeks.
 - \n
 - They people who run the unit can't pay the Goods and Services Tax (GST) on the raw material what they use.
 - \n
 - As there is nothing left after stitching, transportation, buying other materials and paying loans.
 - \n
 - To sustain the labours, the units pay them even if there is no work.
 - \n
 - The competitors in markets in the United States and the European Union had gained by 10%-11% in this period.
 - \n
 - Big players are also badly affected by the demonetisation and have stopped outsourcing (cloth) bundles for stitching works.
 - \n
 - The industry is literally being wiped out, reviving it would be impossible.
