

Law Commission on BCCI

Why in news?

\n\n

The Law Commission of India has recommended some changes with regard to BCCI.

\n\n

What are the recommendations?

\n\n

\n

- Public body - Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) should be declared a public body.

\n

- The cricket board, as an entity, is permitted by the state to represent the country at the international stage.

\n

- The ICC (International Cricket Council) recognises BCCI as the 'official' body representing India.

\n

- It exercises 'state-like' powers in the regulation of cricket.

\n

- Given these, it should logically come under the definition of 'state.'

\n

- RTI - It should be brought under RTI Act's purview for scrutiny by any citizen.

\n

- The board and all its member cricket associations should be brought under the Right to Information law regime.

\n

- NSF - The BCCI virtually acts as a National Sports Federation (NSF).

\n

- Thus, the Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports website should explicitly mention BCCI in the list of NSFs.

\n

- This would automatically bring it within the purview of the RTI Act.

\n

\n\n

What is the need?

\n\n

- \n
 - Functions - The BCCI is a private body that needs no financial help from the government.
- \n
 - The SC also ruled in 2005 that the BCCI could not be termed an instrumentality of the 'State' under Article 12.
- \n
 - However, subsequent developments have increasingly implied the public character of BCCI's functioning.
- \n
 - Rights - The board's monopolistic activities, directly and indirectly, affect the fundamental rights of stakeholders.
- \n
 - These include citizens, players, and other functionaries.
- \n
 - A private citizen should be able to move the highest court against the BCCI for any violation of fundamental rights.
- \n
 - Concerns - The board is currently veiled from public scrutiny.
- \n
 - It enjoys an environment of opacity and non-accountability.
- \n
 - There are concerns of corruption and other forms of malpractices in the board.
- \n
 - It affects the general public's opinion on one of the most popular sports played in India.
- \n
 - It has thus been felt for quite some time to make BCCI more transparent and accountable.
- \n

\n\n

What is the way forward?

\n\n

- \n
 - The central government should consider seriously the recommendation of the Law Commission.

\n

- The Supreme Court's intervention led to the constitution of the Justice R.M. Lodha Committee some time back.

\n

- It recommended sweeping reforms in the board's structure and the rules governing its administration.

\n

- Implementing these reforms at both national and State levels could impart greater transparency in BCCI's functioning.

\n

- It could lead to an overhaul of cricket administration in India and restore faith in the board and the sport.
