Why in News?

In view of the Magh Mela in Prayagraj, around 350 industrial units in Kanpur were directed to suspend operations for 46 days to maintain the water quality.

- Magh Mela - It is one of the big religious events after Mahakumbh, an annual pilgrimage in Prayagraj, where devotees bathe at the Sangam on auspicious dates.
- Location - It is held at Triveni Sangam, Prayag (Allahabad/Prayagraj, Uttar Pradesh), the confluence of 3 sacred rivers - Ganga, Yamuna, Saraswati.
- Duration - It is a 45-day-long pilgrimage that occurs in the Hindu month of Magh (Jan-Feb), on Paush Purnima and ending on Mahashivaratri.
- Historical References - Its records date back to the 7th century CE.
 - Hiuen Tsang, the Chinese Buddhist pilgrim, documented gatherings at Prayag.
 - Khulasat-ut-Tawarikh, a 17th-century Persian text about India authored in Persian in Aurangzeb's court, mentions annual Hindu bathing festivals.
- 6 major ritual baths (snans) - Major snan days include Paush Purnima, Makar Sankranti, Mauni Amavasya, Basant Panchami, Maghi Purnima and Mahashivratri.
- Kalpvas tradition - Devotees (Kalpvasis) live in temporary shelters by the river, performing daily yajnas, havans, and charitable acts.
- Donations - People contribute food and ritual items; three primary donations include Bhojdan (food), Atradan (grains), Tiladan (sesame).
- Difference from Kumbh Mela
 - Magh Mela - Annual, held only in Prayagraj.
 - Kumbh Mela - Once every 12 years, it rotates across Prayagraj, Haridwar, Nashik, and Ujjain.
 - Ardh Kumbh - Every 6 years at Prayagraj.
