

New Data protection policy

What is the issue?

\n\n

\n

- Union Government has constituted a committee under Justice (Retd) BN Srikrishna to suggest and draft a new data protection Bill.

\n

- Well-functioning data privacy legislation will provide an efficient redress mechanism for data subjects.

\n

\n\n

What is the need for new data protection law?

\n\n

\n

- With the proliferation of smartphones use data is very vulnerable.

\n

- Personal information is now being challenged as companies are also exploiting real-time data generated from daily activities.

\n

- Government is increasing its focus on digital payments, which is fuelled by data.

\n

\n\n

How the new data protection law need to be?

\n\n

\n

- Inclusive-It is imperative to bring government agencies within the ambit of the new framework, participation of private firms is also highly recommended.

\n

- Versatile-New data privacy framework must aim to harmonise principles such as limitation on collection and purpose, disclosure, openness, security.

\n

- Dynamic-The approach must be based on standards relevant to enable the law to keep pace with rapid changes in technology.
\n
- Regulated-Regulating the collection of data may not be enough, its use by data collectors and data processors could also be regulated.
\n

\n\n

\n\n

Source: Business Line

\n

