

NGT order to save Ganga

Why in news?

\n\n

National Green Tribunal (NGT) gave its directions to a PIL petition of which was transferred to the NGT from the Supreme Court in 2014.

\n\n

What the NGT mandates?

\n\n

\n

- An area of 100 metres from the edge of the Ganga between Haridwar and Unnao has been declared a 'No Development Zone'.

\n

- Till the demarcation of floodplains and identification of permissible and non-permissible activities by the State government, the 'No Development Zone' is to be followed.

\n

- All industrial units in the catchment areas of the Ganga should be stopped from indiscriminate groundwater extraction.

\n

- Mechanical mining will be banned.

\n

- Dumping of waste within 500 metres of the river is prohibited.

\n

- Rs. 50,000 fine will be imposed on anyone dumping waste in the river.

\n

- It also directed the Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand governments to formulate guidelines for religious activities on the ghats of the Ganga and its tributaries.

\n

- Tanneries from Jajmau in Kanpur should be shifted to leather parks in Unnao within a period of six weeks,.

\n

- A supervisory committee was appointed to oversee implementation of the directions passed in its verdict.

\n

\n\n

\n\n

Source: The Hindu

\n

