What are the demands before Pakistan?

\n\n

\n

- Pakistan in co-operation with the FATF, will have to finalise an action plan by June to counter deficiencies in its financial system with respect to the financing of terrorism.

\n

- If this is not completed, then Pakistan will be put on a watch list by the FATF.

\n

- This will significantly increase regulatory scrutiny of Pakistan-related transactions and increase transaction costs for the external sector in that country.

\n

- An increase in costs and in the risk profile of Pakistan-related transactions will impose significant economic pain, and raise incentives to fix terror financing within the Pakistani system.

What is the role of India in this move?

\n\n

\n

- According to Initial reports Pakistan's usual backers China and Saudi initially supported Pak in FATF.

\n

- But this support petered out when a second and unscheduled vote was called by the US.

\n

- Even though the move has been led by the US, India made a strong diplomatic efforts through its sustained pressure on leading countries to act on terror.

- \n
- India's diplomatic offensive has progressively demanded greater accountability from Pakistan for its actions, or lack of them, against the spread of terror.

- \n
- India also plans to use its moves to ensure China and Saudi Arabia do not abandon their current position on Pak over demands of FATF.
