

Quarter II - Earning Growth

What is the issue?

\n\n

\n

- There has been some earning recovery in the 2nd quarter, but profitability has been low.

\n

- There is also no clear consensus on the growth estimates.

\n

\n\n

What are the statistics?

\n\n

\n

- The July-September 2017 earnings of India Inc were muted as companies struggled to adjust to the GST that rolled out on July 1.

\n

- While revenue growth was the second best in 3 years, profitability proved to be a major concern.

\n

- Combined net profit for 1,852 companies declined by 2.6% even as revenue grew by 8.7% year on.

\n

- Contributing Sectors - Notably, the financial and energy sectors propped up the overall numbers.

\n

- Excluding them, the revenue growth was just 6.9% and net profits plummeted due to increasing raw material and employee costs.

\n

- Large Firms - A further disaggregation of the data reveals that large-cap companies did better than the small- and mid-sized ones.

\n

- A strong performance by companies in refining, finance, automobiles and metals has contributed to this.

\n

- This is also an indication that large firms were also able to withstand demonetisation and the GST better.

\n

- Also, the combined net profit of Nifty 50 companies was up 12.1% during this quarter (2nd) as against a 0.3% decline in the 1st quarter.

\n

- Notably, Nifty companies account for 80.1% of the net profits of the entire sample, up from 78.8% a year ago.

\n

\n\n

What were the positives?

\n\n

\n

- Bank slippages were lower during the second quarter of this financial year and non-performing assets did not rise much.

\n

- Restocking - Consumer businesses such as automobiles also recovered from the lows of the April quarter.

\n

- This was due to distributors and dealers restocking after the implementation of the GST to target an early festive season.

\n

- Revised Estimates - The earnings season also saw analysts raising their consensus estimates of Nifty stocks to around 10% for 2017-18.

\n

- This was a surprising change from the sharp cuts to consensus earnings every quarter in the recent past.

\n

- Notably, the number of Nifty companies that missed their estimates fell to its lowest in the last three years.

\n

\n\n

What are the concerns?

\n\n

\n

- The past 3 years have seen ambitious forecasts at the beginning of the year followed by sharp cuts as the year progressed.

\n

- While some are projecting strong earning growth ahead, not all analysts agree.

\n

- Rather, an early Diwali, GST and a weak base is thought to be driving the trend rather than actual growth.
\n
- Notably, some brokerages have already scaled down their earnings estimated by about 25-30% from the consensus estimate.
\n
- While the upgrades in consensus earnings in the 2nd quarter have seen the stock market rally, the latest concerns leave the market vulnerable.
