What are the issues in India-Maldives relation?

- India Out campaign- It was started in 2020 as on-ground protests in Maldives and later spread widely across social media platforms.
- Lack of transparency- Some have called for lack of transparency, between bilateral agreements signed between India and Maldives during the Solih's government.
- Presence of Indian expatriates- There has been accusations of presence of Indian military troops in Maldives for military tasks.
- 2023 elections – Mohamed Muiz, alleged to favour China has been elected as President, thus raising concerns for India.
- Mohamed Muiz has declared that if elected, he would follow the India first policy traditionally practised by governments of Maldives, but will not allow the crossing of limits.

What lies ahead for India?

- Developments over the last two decades have shown that China has steadily encroached and made gains in India's backyard.
- For India, losing goodwill in the Maldives can prove costly, especially in the light of the Chinese strategy of 'String of Pearls'.
- Despite the anticipated challenges that India may encounter due to the evolving political landscape in the Maldives, it is crucial for India to stay committed to its priorities and continue its efforts to drive development in the archipelago nation.
- Developments in Maldives are therefore not to be taken lightly. After Hambantota, India can simply not afford the formation of a Chinese base.
