

Supreme Court on the Use of Urdu on the Signboard

Prelims (GS I) - History and Culture of India.

Mains (GS I) – Indian heritage and culture.

Why in news?

The Supreme Court recently upheld the use of Urdu on a municipal signboard in Maharashtra's Akola district, declaring that language should unite, not divide.

- Origin of Urdu Urdu is an Indo-Aryan language emerged around the 12th century in Northern India.
- Constitutional Status In India, it is an 8th Schedule language and it has been adopted as the second official language by several states.

Article 345 of the Constitution of India states that a state's legislature can adopt one or more languages or Hindi as the official language of the state.

Supreme court Judgement

• The Supreme Court described Urdu as the finest specimen of Ganga-Jamuni Tehzeeb, or the Hindustani Tehzeeb.

Ganga-Jamuni Tehzeeb (Hindustani tahzeeb)

• Ganga-Jamuni Tehzeeb – It refers to the syncretic Indo-Islamic cultural tradition that developed in plains of northern and central India.

• The term is a metaphor derived from these two rivers the Ganga and the Yamuna (Jamuna), which flow separately but eventually meet and blend their waters.

• Ganga-Jamuni - Hindi word, meaning mixed.

• Tehzeeb – Urdu word, meaning civilization, culture, and development.

• It represents the harmonious blending of Hindu and Muslim cultural elements, traditions, arts, architecture, music, cuisine and language.

• Similarities with Hindi – Supreme court noted that Hindi and Urdu were fundamentally one language with similarities in syntax, grammar and phonology.

The main difference is that Urdu is mainly written in Nastaliq script and Hindi in Devanagari script.

• Exchange of vocabularies – The word Hindi itself comes from the Persian word Hindavi.

- Urdu also has many words borrowed from other Indian languages, including Sanskrit.
- Hindi-Urdu controversy The separation of Hindi and Urdu was partly due to moralist on both sides where Hindi became more Sanskritised and Urdu more Persian.
- Religious polarization The framing of Hindi is the language of the Hindus and Urdu of the Muslims undermines the principles of unity in diversity and universal brotherhood.
- Sc emphasized that A language is only a means of communication and does not represent a religion.
- Language is the yardstick to measure the civilizational march of a community and its people.
