

Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Bill

Click here to know more on the issue

 $n\n$

Why in news?

 $n$

The Lok Sabha passed the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Bill, 2016 recently after certain amendments.

 $n\n$

What are the highlights of the original bill?

 $n\n$

\n

• The bill creates a statutory obligation on public and private sectors to provide them with employment and recognises their right to "self-perceived gender identity".

\n

 A transgender person must obtain a certificate of identity as proof of recognition of identity as a transgender person and to invoke rights under the Bill.

۱'n

- It also provides for a grievance redressal mechanism in establishments.
- It has provisions to establish a National Council for Transgenders.
- It makes the government responsible for preparing welfare schemes and programmes which are "transgender sensitive, non-stigmatising and non-discriminatory".

۱n

• It holds that it is a crime to push transgender persons into begging or bonded or forced labour.

\n

• The Bill recognises the rights of transgender persons to live with their families without exclusion and use the facilities of those households in a non-discriminatory manner.

 $n\n$

What are the concerns with the recent amendments?

 $n\n$

\n

- Identification It defines a transgender as a person whose gender does not match with the gender assigned to that person at birth.
- It also includes trans-man or trans-woman, person with intersex variations, gender- queer and person having such socio-cultural identities as kinner, hijra, aravani and jogta.
- However, the bill envisions a district screening committee which will be invested the power to certify people as trans or not.
- A person who wishes to transition from one gender identity to another will be certified as male/female only after a gender reassignment surgery.
- $\bullet$  This requirement goes against the principle of self-identification as laid down by the supreme court.  $\mbox{\sc h}$
- It also goes against the Nalsa judgment that had specifically laid out that any insistence on surgery for declaring one's gender is immoral and illegal.
- Employment The Bill criminalises begging and prescribes a jail term for 6 months to 2 years for anyone who compels or entices a transgender person to indulge in the act of begging.
- This may harm the community, since in the absence of employment, transgender persons engage in begging as a means of livelihood.
- Reservation The Bill states that the State will ensure the "rescue, protection and rehabilitation" of transgender persons.
- $\bullet$  However, it fails to grant backward class reservation to trans people in education and public employment. \n
- Also recognition of civil rights in marriage, divorce and adoption among transgender persons have not been addressed.
- Rehabilitation The bill bars forcible separation of transgender persons (including transgender children) from their families, except through court orders.

\n

\n

- $\bullet$  They should either live with their natal "family" (blood or adoptive relations) or sent to rehabilitation centres. \n
- However, the bill failed to noted that it was within the family that many transgender persons faced harassment and abuse, and often felt driven to flee their homes.
- Also, when a parent or immediate family member is unable to take care of a transgender, they should be sent to a rehabilitation centre.
- This controls the right to liberty of a cisgender people (people who identify with the same gender identity they were assigned at birth) and make them subjects of "care" which they do not want or need.

 $n\n$

 $n\n$

Source: The Hindu, Business Standard

\n

