STROKE A Brain Attack

When blood flow to the brain is interrupted, brain cells begin to die every second.

Recognize early. React immediately.

Let's protect the mind that powers life.

Stroke can occur in anyone, at any age. Recognizing early symptoms and seeking timely medical care saves lives.

Stroke

- It often referred as a “brain attack,”.
- Caused by - A sudden interruption in the brain’s blood supply.
- Occurrence - when the flow of oxygen-rich blood to part of the brain is blocked (ischemic stroke) or when a blood vessel ruptures, causing internal bleeding (hemorrhagic stroke).
- Transient ischemic attack (TIA) - It also known as a “mini-stroke,” results from a temporary blockage lasting a few minutes.
- In Ayurveda, stroke is understood as a neurological disorder resulting from an imbalance of Vata dosha, leading to weakness or paralysis, typically on one side of the body.
- Ayurvedic management focuses on restoring balance through preventive, detoxifying, and restorative therapies aimed at improving circulation, nerve function, and overall vitality.
