Government policies.

A functioning land market is imperative as India is becoming less of an agrarian economy. due to the phenomenon of Urbanization. Discuss.

Ans With Indian government aspiration to achieve 1.4 trillion infrastructure led growth push, the functioning of land market is very necessary for the greater push to get fruition. As many infrastructure projects get shelved due to problems in land acquisition in past years.

Issues with land price fixation due to urbanisation.

* The land price valuation is very key in converting Agri land to purchase for infrastructure purpose.

- * Urbanisation is converting our agrarian economy slowly to urban environment thus it creates agrarian crisis among rural India.
- * Many peasants, tribals in rural are reluctant to give their land to government as there is no proper land price fixation standard all over India.
- * Agriland price Index - A necessary step to regulate land fixing price.
- * With land requisition problems in background, now IIM Ahmedabad introduced Agriland price Index which will be the reliable source for land value fixation and free land market.
- * Way forward. ∴
 - * Government should also focus on reforms on the tedious framework and procedure of land ^{market} acquisition.
 - and Improving land records in rural India will make land acquisition less conflict prone.
