

Q) Every year, particularly in the monsoon, India witness extreme natural calamities. Do you think that these natural disasters are man-made? Justify your ~~case~~ stand (150-words)

Ans) India is a peninsular country. Perennial river flow in Indian territory. During monsoon season India faces natural calamities i.e. flood, cyclone etc. and landslide etc.

• During south-west monsoon season, North Indian state i.e. Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, UP etc.

Causes of Natural disaster

There are several reasons responsible for natural disaster i.e.

(i) Urbanization

Settlement of urban area is major cause of natural disaster.

(ii) Deforestation

Deforestation is also an important reason for flood, global warming.

(iii) Lack of awareness

(iv) Industrialization

Developed country work on industrialization but least developed country face problem of natural disaster.

(v) Vehicles (excess oil use)

(vi) more use of plastics

(vii) Advance of technology, mining

(viii) Use of chemical fertilizer in crop field.

In summary of It is said that the India faces natural disasters during monsoon season because she is a developing country and urbanization deforestation etc. lack of awareness about save environment,

Need of human can be fulfill but
Unneed of " cannot fulfill.

The activity of human was the main causes of natural disasters.