

- Q) Gender equality and environmental goals are mutually reinforcing and create a virtuous circle that will help accelerate the achievement of the SDGs Analyze (250w)
- Ans) women vulnerable in our society. Gender equality and environmental goals are ~~syner~~ symbiotic relationship that can amplify progress towards a sustainable future.

Vulnerability in changing climate

- According to ~~IO~~ ILO, 2019, 2.2% loss of global working on fulltime jobs.
- UNO highlighted, women are more vulnerable and affected by climate change than men.
- climate change, disaster, food inflation, poverty affecting women's inequality.

Climate change and its impact on women (low income countries)

- women across the globe face:- health issue, safety and quality of life etc.
- vulnerability is main reason for impact of climate change.
- Rural women have responsibility to clean water, cooking fuel and nutritious food for their families.
- women also engaged in agricultural field.

Gender-specific issues

- Displacement and vulnerability
- Exploitation post-disasters
- Gender-Based Violence intensifies
- Limited access to essential services
- Resource and knowledge disparities.

empowering Women for Climate Resilience and Action

(i) Women's Role in climate Adaptation

Acknowledging the potential women possess to contribute to climate adaptation is crucial.

(ii) Empowerment Through Education and Training

Investing in women's education and training for building resilience to the impact of climate change.

(iii) Supporting women farmers

Initiatives like the self-employed women's Association (SEWA) ~~etc~~ create and advance informed about nature.

(iv) women in climate policy Decision-making

(v) Programs to Amplify women's voices.

(vi) Global imperative for women-led climate Action.

In summary if it is said by gender equality and environmental sustainability is no longer an abstract concept; in a future marred by climate uncertainty, investments in women's education, training and Participation stand as beacons of hope