India should stick to the plan to better the lives of the Rohingya until their return home. Substantiate (2006/2011)

Ans: India is home to more than 40,000 illegal Rohingya Muslims that were displaced from Myanmar owing to state sponsored ethnic cleansing.

Since India is not the signatory of Vienna Convention, so it ~~is~~ <sup>is</sup> not bound to follow the policy of non-refoulement but what it can do to better the life of Rohingyas by providing basic amenities that is required by humans like.

- Providing free ration

- providing free health check up and medical care so that they cannot become hot-spot of disease.
- Providing basic education to children. between age group 6-14 years under Article 21
- Can provide sustenance employ-ment under various scheme in line with international refugee law.

Yet the story is not all black, as India is home to famous refugees - Tibetan refugee including Dalai Lama and refugees from Afghanistan and Pakistan. In the same line, for time being, India can be home to Rohingyas by following the principle of Varudhairi Kertumbalam
