The DESH bill Development of Enterprise and Service Hubs was introduced to give fillip to the exports and import substitution. It can boost domestic industries in the country.

The DESH will DESH is placed along side the existing schemes such as SEZ - Special Economic Zone - EOU - Export Oriented Unit and MOOP manufacturing and other operations in unsheltered Regulations.

The DESH will integrated industrial hubs and boost economic activity. Two types of development hub, Enterprise development hub will have land based investment from manufacturing and services.

The EDH will give concessions such as 15-1. corporate tax for greenfield and brownfield sectors.

The service development hubs based on built areas duty payment will cover only services.

Under DESH, sales is allowed in DTA domestic tariff area under duty payment conditions.

Boost exports and self-reliance

The DESH covers wide ambit of industries as SEZs benefited mostly IT,ITES and jewellery. It will lead to investment generation creating employment which is crucial to Industry 4.0.

The DECA must also include metals and metallurgy under its ambit as upstream industries. This will support defense, ship builders and medical devices industries.

As India now became the fifth largest economy the commencement of DESH is seen as a growth engine to enter into ambit Koval and also achieve $5 trillion economy status.
