

Despite being forward upon from moral and religious perspective, laws have failed to desist people from indulging in gambling on sports in India. In such a situation do you think legalising gambling is a viable option to control gambling? Discuss in the light of recent law commission report recommendations

LEGALISING GAMBLING!

The law commission has recommended in its report to legalise gambling saying that it is not possible to curb gambling but can be controlled by legalising the same. But for a developing country like ours legalizing gambling will project government as a promoter of gambling. Our country has more stressing matters like providing livelihood for poor, pollution control, etc... But legalising gambling can control gambling but it should be removed completely, because it might have a bad effect on the lower income people.

transaction made in respect of gambling. and it is also proposed to limit the number of transaction per Individual per day

It also recommends that gambling should be classified as "Proper gambling" and "small gambling" for the higher income people and lower income people respectively. And it must be ensured that money received through Social Security Schemes for gambling.

The above recommendation restricts few people from participation and few people from completely indulging in gambling by restricting transactions. Thus the recommendation control gambling but it should be removed from the society. There must be an even more stringent measures for the same.
