

1) Does the implementation of National Rural Livelihoods Mission really help in transforming lives of women in the country? Critically Analyse.

A) National Rural Livelihood Mission is an poverty alleviating scheme aimed at providing institutional credit to self help groups thus encouraging entrepreneurship and promoting economic independence. It is implemented by rural development ministry assisted by world bank as a part of its rural poverty alleviation programme.

The concerted efforts of the Union & states certainly helped the rural women in transforming their lives and enhanced the livelihood

Opportunities

Challenges

- 1) Lack of markets and marketing strategies hindering their growth
- 2) Lack of institutional credit hampers production
- 3) Inadequate supply value chain system
- 4) Lack of political democracy

The NRLM definitely touched the lives of the rural women but more govt policies are necessary to plug the holes in the system and helping ~~em~~ women empowerment.
