

14) India must reach out to the freedom fighters in Myanmar who are spearheading a civil disobedience movement to restore democracy. Elaborate

IL

Mass killing, human rights violations, ethnic discrimination, displacement of lakhs of people are the result of military rule which toppled popular government in Myanmar.

Young educated people under the banner of "People's defence force (PDF)" carrying civil disobedience to restore democracy. Some of these people who belong to Chin settled in Mizoram.

Recently Home minister directed Mizoram govt to identify & deport them back" created schism b/w state & state.

Chin refugees have common ethnic & cultural relationship b/w Mizoram Myanmar people which supported by open border. India should give asylum temporary to them.

Protecting human right is duty of any nation & there refugee crisis may also create security issue in support of protesters. Govt should have talk with Myanmar government.

India as a member of security council in UN, like the issue stood with democratic values, even in Indo-ASEAN summit it can discuss it.

Role of India in Bangladesh liberation is appreciated globally, taking example from it supporting genuine people protest enhance Indias position in multipolar world.

Even though Indian government observes mutual non aggression & non interference in internal policies as per PANCHSHEELA & GUJRAL DOCTRINE.

Restoring democracy, protecting human rights is at most important.
